The Entire Store

is in holiday dress. Visitors especially invited to visit this store. It is one of Wheeling's principal attractions. You are welcome, whether you wish to make purchases or not.

Lively Selling.

Specially attractive values in every department.

Suits.

Want to call your attention especially to our great showing of Ladies' Fine Tailor Made Suits. Don't think there are many stores in cities several times the size of this one that show the great variety. Prices $10.00 to $50.00. Special attention is called to showing of All Wool Covert Cloth Suits on sale to-day at $10 Each.

See them. You've never seen their equal less than $15.00.

Golf Capes.

Yesterday's express brought us over 300 of these popular garments. To-day they are on sale. Beauties at $9.95, $12.85 and $14.85. Very nice ones at $4.95 and $5.90. Finer ones up to $28.00.

Wrappers.

1,000 dozen bought way under price. Not going to say what the regular value of these Wrappers are, but want you to expect wonderful values, and you will not be disappointed. Two prices:

Wrappers at 59c.
Wrappers at 87c.

The Bishop Donahue Lecture.
Owing to unavoidable circumstances, the date of the lecture, "My Trip to Europe," by Rt. Rev. Bishop Donahue, at the Carroll Club auditorium, has been changed from Wednesday, October 25, to Monday, October 23. The committee in charge of this event will meet this evening to complete arrangements. Much energy has been manifested by this committee and that its efforts will be crowned with success will be shown by one of the largest audiences the auditorium has ever held.

In Clerk Robertson's Office.
Business in the county clerk's office yesterday included the following:

Deed dated September 1, 1899, from L. A. Rolf to Lena M. Vetter, wife of Jacob A. Vetter, transferring part of lot on South McCulloch street; consideration, $950.

Deed dated October 10, 1899, from Robert Anderson to John F. Shirk, transferring ground at Edgington's Lane; consideration, $550.

Deed dated December 2, 1897, from Anthony J. Welsh, John E. Welsh and Edward A. Welsh, to their mother, Catherine Welsh, widow of Owen Welsh, transferring real estate on Charles street; consideration, $5.

Deed dated October 11, 1899, between T. S. Riley, trustee, and Louis Bertschy, transferring property on Wood street; consideration, $1,166.

Deed dated October 10, 1899, from Adam Honecker, to William F. Graebe, conveying lot on South Wood street; consideration, $5.

Marriage licenses were issued as follows:
Joseph M. Jones, aged twenty-one, and Mabel Murray, aged twenty-one, both of Marshall county, Pa.
Louis A. Smith, aged twenty-five, and Ida D. Long, aged twenty-three, of Grafton.

Ezra B. Hanna, aged thirty-two, of Salem, and Lydia M. Ruble, aged twenty-seven, of Powhatan, Va.
Rev. Jonathan G. Hanna, of Pennsylvania, was given license to perform the marriage ceremony in West Virginia.

There were eight deeds of trust recorded.

AN UGLY FIRE

Was that of Last Evening on the Upper Market Square.

THE STREETS WERE CROWDED

With Pythians and Spectators and There Were Several Narrow Escapes as the Fire Apparatus Dashed by—The Fire was in one of the Farmers' Home Buildings and Looked Dangerous for a Time.

When the alarm from box No. 18 called out the entire fire department to an ugly fire in the upper Market square last evening, at 5:45 o'clock, Market street, from Twelfth to Tenth, was crowded with Pythian bodies, just returning from the base ball park, and there were many spectators out. As the fire engines and hose wagons dashed up Market street at breakneck speed there were several very narrow escapes scored by slow moving pedestrians, and it is surprising that no accidents resulted.

The fire was in the upper story of the brick stable in the rear of the Farmers' Home Hotel, located at Nos. 1008 and 1010 Market street, conducted by Troesch and Hadorn, and owned by the Neuhardt estate. In a manner unknown the hay in the upper story had caught fire, and in a trice the flames and smoke were bursting out of the roof at a great rate. When the department arrived the fire had gained much headway, and it looked as though the wings of the hotel, which extend to the alley on each side of the stable building, would be reached by the fire, but the quick and intelligent work of Chief Cline and his fire ladders soon showed conclusively to the spectators that the fire would be confined to the building in which it started. The work of the firemen was watched by a large crowd, including many of the visiting Pythians, to most of whom the fighting of a fire by a first class fire department was both novel and interesting.

The loss on the building was probably not more than $300, and that on its contents not in excess of the same amount. The horses were got out of the stable uninjured, but considerably frightened.

There were exaggerated rumors in circulation, one being that thirteen horses, three cows and two men had been cremated.

During the fire there was intense excitement in disreputable Alley C., whose denizens believed that the thoroughfare was going to be wiped out by the fire fiend.

IT WAS A BIG DEAL

By Which Colonel Guffey gets in on the Weston Development.

Territory in the vicinity of the Camden tract, in Lewis county, W. Va., is in great demand, but unless one has a big "roll" it's of little use to investigate, says "D. S. W." Colonel Guffey was a little late arriving at the front, but when he put in an appearance it was quite evident he was out for some of the "stuff." The big Edmiston tract, a mile or more to the south and southwest of the Camden well, had not been leased. It contains 6,000 acres and its size and location just about suited the colonel, and when he is in the saddle and looking for big game, it does not take him long to decide how to proceed to bag the quarry. In this particular case, the owner of the big tract was the quarry sought, and after he had been found, a bonus of $20,000 did the rest. The ink was scarcely dry on the lease until Mr. Guffey had two locations made on the Mrs. Edwards farm, a part of the big lease. In this connection, it might be remarked that Colonel Edmiston, and Colonel Guffey are of the same political faith, the former being the prospective gubernatorial candidate on the Democratic ticket at the coming election. It is possible that the two colonels may form a combination of oil and politics, in which case Mr. Edmiston should be able to slide right into the gubernatorial chair.

The actions of the Southern Oil company's well on the Camden tract are rather mysterious, to say the least. Its sudden decline is not at all in keeping with the way the well started. The strength it showed at first would have warranted a better demonstration of staying qualities. It started at two hundred barrels a day and increased to four hundred barrels, and at the end of five days should have held its initial output without any assistance. It has fallen far below that figure and this gives rise to a rumor that the well has, for the past two days, been prevented from doing its best, or rather "monkeyed with," as one operator put it. For the past two days the public has been excluded from the derrick and tanks; consequently the information as to what the well is doing is not very reliable. It is generally thought to be less than one hundred barrels a day. Even if that is the correct gauge, there is nothing certain that it is doing all it can do if at its best.
